

Why do you need
International Arbitration?

What is arbitration and why do you need it?

Are you an international trader involved in commercial transaction over multiple countries?

In international contracts the Parties usually have their domicile in different states.

Should a dispute arise, would you like the idea of your company being forced to sue or be sued in a foreign country? Before judges not acquainted with the specificities of your trade? And without having any possibility of input on the timeline or type of procedure? Probably not, we would guess.

Then even if you happen to obtain a favorable decision after lengthy proceedings and possibly an appeal to the foreign supreme court, how will you enforce your money back against a business counterpart who might have his core business in another part of the globe?

A balanced solution is choosing international arbitration: a flexible, efficient, neutral and confidential method of dispute resolution resulting in a final legally binding and globally enforceable award rendered by one or three arbitrators after examination of the evidence available and application of the law.

Here are the 12 main reasons why you should choose arbitration:

How can we assist you?

Pyxis Law is a boutique firm dedicated to international dispute resolution

Based in Geneva, Switzerland, a reputed hub for worldwide trades in a country with a well-established model of neutrality, Pyxis Law's team comprises seasoned polyglot litigators who have excellent expertise in international disputes.

Pyxis Law has a sensitivity for foreign, notably oriental cultures and strong ties to the Turkish market.

Unlike larger law firms, Pyxis Law is less exposed to conflict of interest.

Pyxis Law considers alternative fee arrangements and third-party funding for SME or family businesses with limited budget.

We can provide you with the following services:

Cross-Border Contracts

Review and update of your standard cross-border contracts
